MARK 5:34

Continuing the Conversations

In his Sunday sermon last week (listen to it online: trinitylutheranchurch.com/sermons), and on the cover of the What's Happening, Pastor Red applauded the ways in which many in this congregation have expressed themselves in a responsible manner around the many complex issues facing not only our community but the country as a whole.

We are encouraged to continue these conversations, always keeping in mind how we talk to one another as well as continuing to discuss what we talk about. Keep reading for some resources to keep the conversation going.

How We Talk

Keep at the forefront of our conversations our RESPECT Communication Guidelines found on our website (trinitylutheranchurch.com/resources).

What We Talk About

Terry Anderson has offered a reflection on family separation, as well as a resource to stay informed and get involved. Read her piece on our resource page, linked above, or pick up a copy in the narthex.

An Opportunity to Talk

Join Pastor Red in an open conversation on Thursday, July 12 at 1 PM here at Trinity.

God's Work. Our Hands. Day of Service

On September 9, 2018, Trinity plans to join ELCA congregations nationwide in a day of service called "God's work. Our hands." We are looking for a team to help pull it all together and begin planning, remembering that: "Together in Jesus Christ we are freed by grace to live faithfully, love boldly, and serve joyfully." Let's embrace this opportunity to celebrate our part in the larger church body as we serve those in our community.

Please email Debbie@trinitylutheranchurch.com if you would like to be part of the planning team.
